Mayor Recaps 2014, Looks Ahead during Annual Speech

If you ask Mayor Michael Gresk to sum up the past year in Wheaton, he will point out some defining numbers that encapsulate 2014, as he did during his annual State of the City Address. Here are some of the significant numbers.

22 Twenty-two days last winter dipped below zero degrees, causing a variety of problems at the start of 2014 – from an abundance of potholes popping up, stress on the roadways, a spike in road salt prices and frozen underground pipes. The past winter tested the City's infrastructure and marked a challenging start to 2014. To sum it up, the National Weather Service stated the four-month period between December 2013 and March 2014 ranked as the coldest on record – dating back to 1872.

region, less than 600 remain standing. Spring's arrival highlighted a rapid acceleration of emerald ash borer infestations in the community and region. In response, the Forestry Division accelerated its ash tree removal program, and Wheaton initiated a City-funded parkway tree replacement program to begin a large-scale reforestation effort throughout the community.

4.1 Over the past year, City crews improved 4.1 miles of roadways and replaced 2,505 sidewalk squares. Last year's sidewalk program focused on the northern quadrant of Wheaton (north of Harrison Avenue), and in 2015, crews will replace sidewalk squares in the southwest area of the city. The City also plans to improve another 4.1 miles of roadways in 2015.

City lowered its property tax levy, a sign of its excellent financial health. Mayor Gresk highlighted the City's highest possible bond rating, reflecting the City's excellent credit worthiness. In addition, the latest financial audit of Wheaton's finances and processes showed an increase in the City's net financial position by $1.6 million.

18 Other signs of financial growth include the 18 new businesses the Mayor highlighted in his speech, the completion of Wheaton 121's 300-unit luxury apartment development and the opening of DuPage Medical Group's new 40,000-square-foot medical office space in downtown Wheaton.

29% The Wheaton economy showed strength with its 29% increase in new single-family home permits issued in 2014, compared with 2013. In addition, the City's Building & Code Enforcement Department issued 7% more permits in 2014 than the previous year, showing the economy continuing to pick up.

84% Eighty-four percent of Wheaton residents randomly selected to participate in a communitywide survey gave positive ratings for their overall satisfaction with City services – a full 27 percentage points higher than the national average. While there are several areas identified in the survey where Wheaton continues to strive for improvement, the overall satisfaction score reflects the largely positive results the community gave across the board in the survey, rating Wheaton at or above the national average in Planning (ERP) system. This is a city-wide software system that is streamlining many of the City's operations by integrating them. The systems affect everything from payroll and permitting to utility billing and parking tickets, and this will modernize how the City assists residents and businesses.

The City also is working to develop a redesigned website with similar goals of efficiency and better serving the community. Because people who use Wheaton's website often access it on a mobile phone, an iPad or another device, the City is developing a website that responds to many types of devices and technology

The City has enlisted assistance in optimizing its snow routes and procedures. This is another area where Wheaton is looking toward the future with efficiency in mind, as well as a project related to energy efficiency. The City will be replacing high-pressure sodium street lights in some areas with LED fixtures. The new fixtures use about half the amount of energy as the current ones with bulbs that last more than twice as long.

In closing, Mayor Gresk stated he looks forward to a new year sure to bring progress, growth and new businesses as the City continues to strive toward best serving the community.

54 of 66 areas assessed. From this survey, the City received important community feedback and direction on how the City can better serve the community and achieve the City Council's strategic goals.

2015 and Beyond

In his annual presentation, Mayor Gresk also highlighted a few projects that will help make the City more efficient in 2015.

One of the major projects that the City will continue to implement over the next year is an Enterprise Resource

Property Owners Required to Remove Diseased Trees

Contracted crews are removing diseased trees located in City parkways, but property owners are responsible for removing infested trees on private property.

Applies to infested ash trees on private property

Ash trees infested by the emerald ash borer aren't just an eyesore; they also have the potential to become dangerous.

While contracted crews finish removing ash trees located in City parkways, the City reminds property owners that they are responsible for removing ash trees on private property infested by the emerald ash borer. Infested trees become unstable, eventually posing a safety hazard.

Wheaton City Code states that ash trees infested with the Emerald Ash Borer and elm trees infected with the fungus known as Dutch Elm Disease are declared a public nuisance. It is the responsibility of the property owner to promptly remove and properly dispose of these trees. The City recommends you contact a certified arborist regarding tree removal. Unfortunately, unless property owners have been continuously treating their ash trees with emerald ash borer insecticides, their trees are most likely already infested.

"The emerald ash borer has killed millions of ash trees across the U.S., and the unfortunate reality is that unless you have been treating your trees, you can expect them to become infested," said Forestry Superintendent Kevin Maloney. "Look for the signs of infestation – such as dieback in the crown of the tree, woodpecker damage and D-shaped holes in the bark. This tells you that your tree is infested and will likely need to be removed."

City Needs Your Feedback for Website Redesign

The City of Wheaton's website, www.wheaton.il.us, is getting ready for an update. Since the current website's launch in January 2008, the devices people use to access the internet, the types of services and information users want online, and even the ways many people find information online have changed.

To modernize the City's website so it works easily for all users – including residents, businesses, visitors and others – the City is beginning the process of redesigning the website.

For the new website to meet your needs, the City would like your help in identifying what you would like to see on it. How can the site be improved? What type of information or features should the City include or not include on the new site?

Please take a moment to share your feedback through this online survey at www.wheaton.il.us/survey collecting information about your experience using the City's website and ideas for improvement.

New Train Warning System Activated

Metra and Union Pacific activated their new Another Train Warning System at the downtown Wheaton train station. If a train is present and another train is approaching, a red "Danger" sign illuminates and flashes continuously. Also, a white "Another Train Coming" sign illuminates steadily, and an audible warning sounds continuously. The system stays active as long as there is more than one train in the area of the station.

The system aims to improve the flow of commuter and freight traffic by allowing trains to safely operate past a station while a commuter train is stopped there. It is part of a larger $165 million improvement project.

Improvements at the station also include new pedestrian paths to safely guide commuters away from the tracks to a gated crossing and additional pedestrian fences to improve separation between pedestrians and trains.

Other elements of the overall project include an upgraded rail signal system to improve train flow, new cross-overs and a third set of rails in two bottleneck areas.

Ensure you are not providing coyotes with a source of food, such as pet food left outdoors.

Learn to Discourage Coyotes, Protect Pets

While coyotes are valuable in decreasing the rodent population, their presence in populated areas can be minimized by removing things that attract them to places they are not wanted. Coyotes can become a nuisance when they have easy access to food in residential areas, such as pet food or garbage.

NEVER feed a coyote

Take steps to ensure that you are not providing them with a source of food, either intentionally or unintentionally:

- Feed pets indoors or promptly remove dishes when pets complete their meal outside. Store bags of pet food indoors.

- Clear brush and dense weeds from around property to deprive rodents of shelter and reduce protective cover for coyotes.

- Use trash barrels equipped with tight clamping devices on the lids.

- DO NOT feed or provide water for coyotes or other wildlife. This practice abnormally attracts coyotes and promotes increased numbers of rodents, birds and other creatures that can provide major portions of the coyote's natural diet.

How to Protect Pets

- Keep small pets (cats, rabbits, small dogs) indoors. Don't allow them to run free at any time. They are easy prey.

- Use a short leash when walking your pet. Never let a coyote get between you and your pet.

- Dogs should be brought inside after dark and never allowed to run loose or unsupervised. This is especially important during mating season, which is February through April.

- Fences do not guarantee your pet's safety. Always attend to small pets outdoors.
